Welcome to the Fall 2019 Saint Paul Art Crawl!

Twice a year artists open their studios and work spaces to showcase their artwork to thousands of visitors across the city. It is a great time to explore the many artists and artistic mediums that are found within St. Paul. In our ten art districts you can find 21 venues and over 300 participating artists who are waiting to talk with you!

When you see ART you like- BUY it! Buying artwork directly supports artists and helps the creative community in St. Paul stay strong.

If you are NEW to the Art Crawl, here are a few ideas to get you going:

Browse the Catalog Images and find a couple artists whose work speaks to you and visit those and other artists in their buildings and districts.

You could start your day at the Midway Triangle Building in the Raymond District; park along University where parking is often FREE and work your way east to the Midway District. When you are ready for another district, hop the Green Line Train to Downtown and Lowertown to talk with more great artists. Train rides are free with a pass you can download at www.saintpaulartcrawl.org.

Or, begin with the East Side Artists and follow the venues to West 7th Street, culminating your experience with the Schmidt Artist Lofts artists. Be sure to see the We Are Still Here Exhibit by Indigenous Artists of St. Paul.

If you are a returning visitor, THANK YOU for making this part of your planned excursions! We know you have your “favorites” that you visit every season. After seeing them, consider branching out of your routine and step into new buildings to meet more soon-to-be faves!

We wish a fond farewell to Brenda Brousseau, the Art Crawl Director, who is relocating at the end of the year. Brenda co-led the Art Crawls with Alex Richmond for six seasons; the two worked to propel the Art Crawl toward the future and increased the number of districts, venues, participating artists, and visitors. We have a great deal of gratitude and thanks for Brenda’s hard work, dedication, and tireless efforts to expand the diversity of artists: Brenda coordinated the exhibit “Other” in Spring 2019, which featured Hispanic/Latino artists and the Indigenous art of the “We Are Still Here” exhibit currently on view at the Schmidt.

We thank Brenda for always going above and beyond in her work for the Saint Paul Art Crawl and wish her all the best in her new adventures.

Enjoy the 2019 Fall Crawl and mark your calendars for the 2020 Spring Crawl April 24-25-26.

Thank you for supporting the arts in St. Paul!

 Scratchboard, 24" x 24", 2019

I am drawn to the mystery that involves working in scratchboard. You start your artistic process with a completely black board, slowly you scratch away the black to reveal your subject. Viewing that vast amount of black can be very intimidating, but the challenge speaks to me. Revealing the light, versus creating the dark, has a certain life philosophy that resonates with me. Using only small strokes of the blade to create an artwork also brings a sense of intimacy. To truly appreciate this type of artwork you are required to come close and experience the art as the artist does, at an arms length.

Tom McGregor's earliest memories are of being totally immersed in the act of drawing on a large slate chalkboard in the back room of his mother's business. That feeling of total immersion is something he strives for every time he paints. Since graduating from Minnesota State University Moorhead in 1987 with a BFA in art, Tom pursued a career as a self-employed graphic designer, illustrator and artist with an office/studio in Saint Paul, Minnesota. In 2019, he turned to painting full time. Plein air painting (painting from life) combines his passion for being outdoors with his love for painting. Tom strives for honesty in his work, trying to be true to what he feels passionate about while engaged with nature. He tries to find, not just the beauty, but that which tells a story, has a history, affects him emotionally; but most of all, challenges him to think about where he is as a human being living in this particular time and place.

Thank you to our Fall 2019
Catalog Cover Competition Jurors

Ann Mooney began her art career at the young age of 4 when her mother sat her down with a box of antique beads. Since these many years she has grown and enjoyed being the gallery director of various twin cities galleries. Currently, she owns Indigo Swan Jewelry and Fine Art in Stockholm, WI. Her gallery contains art from around the world and is a magical place. People refer to it as “their happy place!”

Ryan Werbalowsky is a surrealist artist whose surrealistic drawings depict a myriad of stories and thoughts in the form of visual metaphors. Ryan’s most publicly appreciated piece is the 2019 drawing “The Devil Feasts on Flies” which won the cover art for the 2019 Saint Paul Art Crawl catalog as well as the annual 2019 Made at MCAD Juried Art Competition.

Ryan was influenced by the images in the books his mother would read to him and he spent much of his childhood filling notebooks with his sketches. Following his 21st birthday he began immersing himself in his art. This pursuit, however, has not been wholly replete with success and admiration. The failures and negative feedback Ryan has encountered has influenced his technique and creation more than any public successes and has shaped his art into its current form.

Tim Harwig is a long-time Twin Cities resident and the owner/operator of FrameUps Framing and Gallery from 1987-2017. FrameUps emphasized and displayed local artists of all mediums and was a prominent feature in the expansion of the Twin Cities art and gallery scene. Tim and his team worked with all the major art fairs and festivals over the years and used that work to enrich and encourage local artists throughout Minnesota and the Midwest.

Bead Crochet Jewelry

By AnJartica

I had learned how to crochet as a young girl growing up in West Bohemia. Though it wasn't until 2013 that I first came across the bead crochet technique at a workshop in Prague.

Bead crochet has been experiencing a popular revival in Eastern and Central Europe over the last decade. However, the roots of the technique go back to the early part of the last century. It seems the bead crochet technique was practiced in prison camps during World War I; especially in Egypt and Great Britain. Beadwork and bead crochet have also been popular handicrafts within Turkish prisons both as therapy and as a means of financial support for prisoners. This is why, in Turkish, the bead crochet technique is referred to as "prison work" (hapishane işi, cezaevi işi). Time for a quick confession; I am a bit of a Turkologist as well!

Bead crochet can be used to make purses, cases, balls, keychains of various shapes and even toys. However, I most often use it to create bead crochet ropes. These ropes are the basis of my jewelry. There are various methods and techniques used to make beaded ropes such as wire wrapping, kumihimo and peyote stitch but my favorite is bead crochet for its versatility. It is a really mobile technique as well.

Once I finish the first two parts of the process – designing the piece and stringing the beads, I can take my project and work on it easily anywhere I like - park, cafe, lake, etc. (this is not easy to do with those other rope making methods). A couple of my easier projects were made during long flights, helping the time to pass by quickly. Indeed, bead crochet is a time-consuming craft. It really isn't a surprise to me why it used to be, or perhaps somewhere still is, a popular thing to do in a prison.

Another reason why I prefer using bead crochet instead of kumihimo or wire wrapping, is that it has the possibility to create more intricate and complicated patterns and the final piece holds together in a tighter and more regular fashion.

The first part of my work process is designing the piece of jewelry and a pattern. I prefer creating simple patterns but incorporating various sizes and kinds of beads. Czech glass pressed beads of different shapes, semi-precious stones and pearls are some of the materials that allow for the plasticity of the final piece. Most of my ideas stay only in my head and are rather abstract. Occasionally I will write down notes and then draw the pattern. When I am drawing a pattern, example a sun). I then spend considerable time resolving how to capture it graphically and continually adjusting the pattern until I get what I'm looking for. Pieces with graphically more complicated patterns usually make for a thicker rope in diameter and are done using a single crochet stitch. My source of inspiration varies, but use the bead chart calculated by the program and string the beads one by one in a prescribed manner. Some of the more complicated projects use about 4000 beads on a necklace, but on average I string about 2000 beads for a necklace project.

This process requires a lot of attention and can take up to several hours. As for stringing material, I use a variety of cotton threads, pearl cotton, or top stitch thread when working with semi-precious stones or heavier beads. Having a Czech origin, I naturally love to work with the Czech glass seed beads as well as Japanese glass seed beads with permanent finishes to create pieces of the best quality. It is important to use the right thickness of a thread for the right size of the beads so that I can achieve the right tension and the thread doesn't show up on the final project.

My favorite part comes at the end. This is the crocheting itself. It is always a little surprise to see what the final piece looks

Single Crochet Stitch - Sunshine Pattern

I use a pc program; JBead or DBead are two I like that are specifically designed for bead crochet projects. Other times I will have a specific idea of what I want visually on my project (for most often it is nature, flowers, particular color scales, or colors in fashion and art.

After finishing the designing and drawing of the pattern, I

like since the glass beads have various finishes and the real colors and combinations are always a bit different than the ones on paper. Because of this, when working with intricate patterns, I sometimes make a small sample before stringing and crocheting the whole project. In the crocheting process I slide each bead down one at a time (in each crochet stitch) to incorporate it into the crochet fabric, which I am creating at the same time. I use either a slip stitch for thinner and more simple projects or a single crochet stitch for thicker and more complex projects. The crocheting is done in a circle and as a spiral - with no finish or start of the rows. The two different stitches have quite a different final look; using a slip stitch the beads align horizontally, whereas with a single crochet stitch the beads align diagonally. I usually use a 1 mm or 1.25 mm crochet hook depending on the size of the beads and thickness of the thread I am working with.

I get a lot of questions asking what is inside the ropes. I don't use any filling in my bead crochet ropes, in fact, on average the empty center is only a couple millimeters wide. The trick is using the right size of the crochet hook, the right thickness of the thread and controlling the tension of the stitches while working to create a flexible but not overly stiff bead crochet rope.

Our unit is so open, airy and filled with light, it lends itself to making art. The physical space, with the nice big windows and tall ceilings, well I just walk in and feel as if the space is asking or even begging me to sit down and create something.”

The building reminds me of the Harlem Renaissance, when people in the spirit of art would come together and exchange ideas. I love the idea of being around people who are living and loving what they do.”

On behalf of the St. Paul Art Collective we thank the many artists, volunteers, and participants for their hard work in making the Art Crawl happen!

We know you enjoy visiting the Saint Paul Art Crawl—
Come join us as a volunteer!

We are a volunteer organization and the Art Crawl would not happen without people like you. Our Volunteers keep the Art Collective and Art Crawl growing.

If you are an arts supporter and are looking for a way to be involved, we want your skills! Volunteers are needed to work on single event tasks that take only a couple hours, larger project-based tasks, such as event planning. We are also looking for those interested in continued involvement who would like to be a part of the Art Crawl Planning Committee or the St. Paul Art Collective Board of Directors. Everyone is welcome—Just bring your love for art and the community!

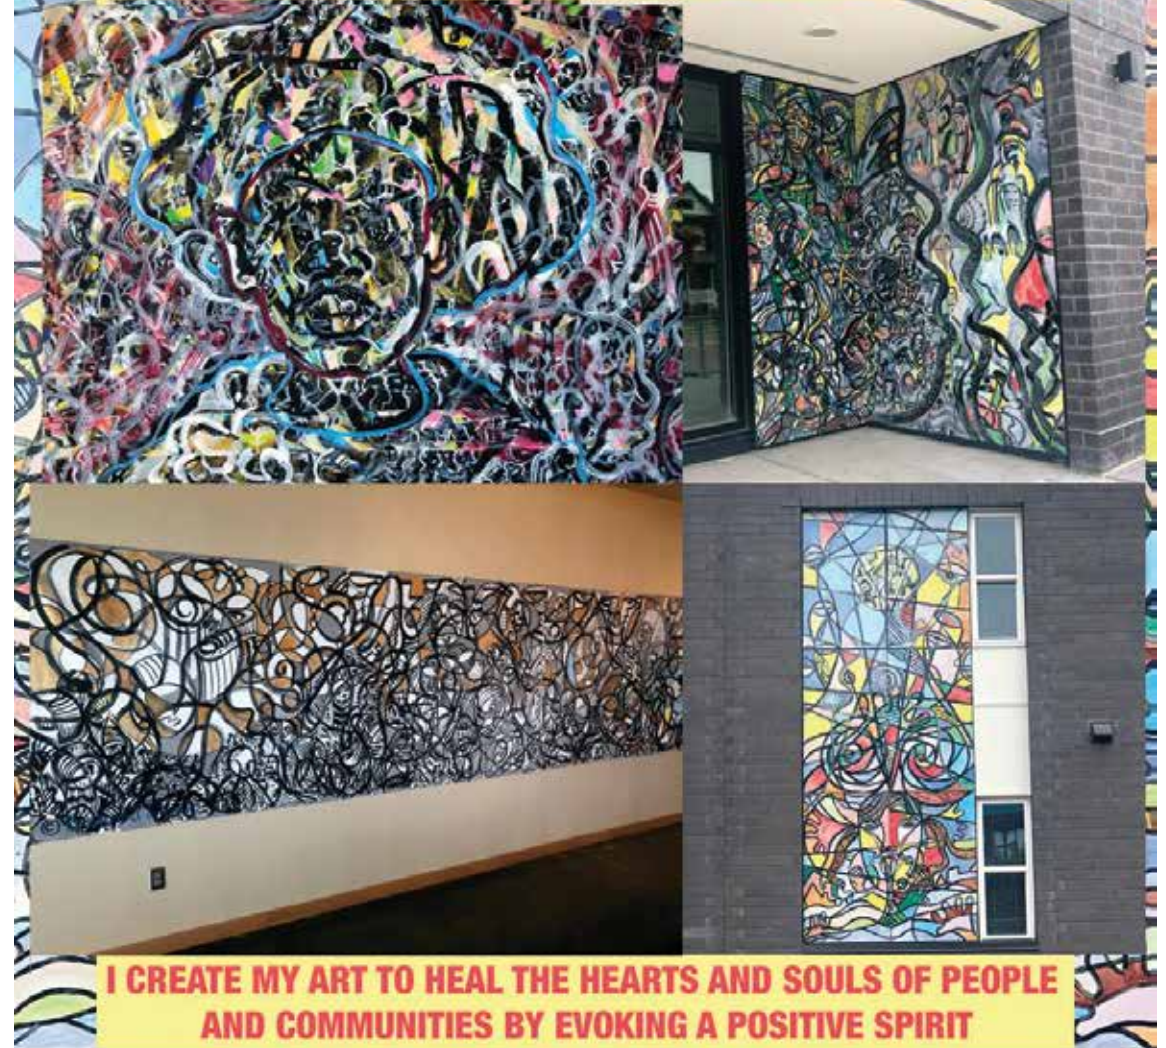

For more information on volunteer opportunities, please drop a note to us at info@stpaulartcollective.org
